

BREAD MUST COME DOWN.THE BAKERS' TRUST FEELING THE EFFECTS OF PUBLIC OPINION.

BREAKS IN ALL BANKS IN THIS CITY AND BROOKLYN—ANOTHER SECRET MEETING HELD.

It is not probable that the Wholesale Bakers' Association will much longer continue its suicidal policy in relation to the cheaper bread question. As outlined in The Tribune several days ago, there has been a weakening all along the line of the bakers, and in the opinion of those interested in the fight for a fairer and more equal price for bread in comparison with the cost of flour, it was only a matter of a little time when the members of the "Bread Trust" would be compelled to recede from their inconsistent position and reduce the price of their bread one cent.

The first break came when certain retail dealers in this city informed a Tribune reporter that a large wholesale baker of Brooklyn, a member of the Trust, was supplying them with bread at three cents a loaf. This baker was Henry Friedmann, of Bedford-ave., and North Eleventh-st., Brooklyn. He denied, however, the claims made by the dealers, even as late as yesterday. It is known, nevertheless, that Friedmann's alleged action was reported to the Trust and that while his representatives have always said that each member of the Trust was allowed to sell his bread at his own price, the master baker of the trust had, in fact, created a system of selling bread under the Trust's established price of four cents a loaf, a wholesale price of $2.00 for each offence.

It was impossible to find any of the leading members of the trust yesterday. They were either not at their usual places of business when the reporter called, and he finally discovered the cause. There was another secret meeting, and, as usual, the Trust magnates disappeared from public life without leaving any trace of their proceedings.

The secret meeting of the trust was held two weeks ago, no information could be obtained. Neither could any information be gained. Whether any information could be obtained from other sources, it would appear that the Bread Trust has about given up the fight, and there will be a reduction of one cent a loaf made soon. The Trust will be forced to take this step in the general opinion of the public, driven by the demands of the workers in the bread business by the smaller bakers. Not being able to advance a single argument in favor of keeping up the price of bread, the more charitably inclined of the Trust workers have become ashamed of their former demands for a fair price for its bread as was paid when flour cost twice as much as at present.

Probably nothing can so upset the trust as the smarmy sale it was making of its members' bread at a lower offer to supply bread at even a lower rate than those interested in the cheaper bread sale had demanded. This was a crushing blow to the Trust. This bad kick acknowledged by the canny men of the trust was a loss of a cent more than 2 cents a loaf, what defence has the Trust to the Tribune's long-assured claims that it could make good business profit if it reduced its wholesale price of bread to 3 cents a loaf?

NO CIRCULAR ON ANTHRACITE.

It was learned definitely yesterday that the companies which ship anthracite coal have not yet sent out a new circular for the line trade, but several of them have reduced their prices considerably, and a general lowering of prices is expected. Cox & Bros. insist that they have not sent out a circular, owing to the illness of E. B. Ely, the manager, who was informed of the office that definite news would be taken out. The first act of Kriehelth was to address an appeal to President Cleveland.

MORE ABOUT THE ARMENIANS.

J. S. DIONIAN, OF THIS CITY, THINKS THE TURNER MINISTER'S STATEMENTS MISLEADING.

The Armenian colony was in a state of excitement yesterday over the letter of Mayroyen Bey, the Turkish Minister, in which he pronounces the reports from Armenia as "nearly incorrect." It is charged by the Minister that the trouble at Sissoum was created by Armenian brigands, who are described as extremely bloodthirsty, and instances of alleged ferocity are mentioned. Flat denial is made of the reported massacre, and the Armenians are denounced as dangerous to the country they inhabit.

J. S. Dionian was seen at No. 34 Nassau-st., yesterday, and said regarding the denial: "I would be only too happy if there were no truth in the reports from Armenia, but I have no doubt on the subject; neither could any one have any doubt who knows the condition of affairs in that country. Mayroyen Bey's statement is misleading. Any one reading Mayroyen's letter would think that the greater part of the Armenian population are brigands, while, in fact, there is no such thing as a brigand among them. We see Bulgarian and Greek brigands, but never an Armenian. And he says we had in our possession arms of foreign origin, and were in connivance with insurgent Kurds. But the Turkish law prohibits the Armenian having in his possession not only arms of any kind, but even a pocket-knife. A penknife in the hands of an Armenian makes him liable to arrest."

As to the denial on the part of the Turks of the charge that women have been carried away by them, Mr. Dionian says:

"The atrocities committed against our women are so ghastly that they could not be described in words. I was a witness in 1879 while traveling through the provinces with Sir Charles Wilson, the Consul-general for England, as private secretary, of a band of ruthless brigands for the possession of an Armenian girl. And Mayroyen Bey speaks of us as revolutionaries. We are not. We would like less men if we were not. Then any good man would be for organizing for the bettering of our condition."

Mr. Dionian is the president of the Patriarchal Society, which he says was founded "to bring about by peaceful means and through the intercession of the powers represented at the Berlin Congress the realization of the Tigranit article, which was enacted in 1878."

The spokesman said: "We was not surprised that some skirmishes ended with the Turks; it was to their interest to do so."

The converts made by these missionaries," he went on, "are those who have sacrificed everything to gain. Once under the control of the missionary, the poor Armenian grows away from his own people, and that is why the better class of Armenian oppose the missionaries. We are organizing," he said, "so that they will help us in the cause of education, but we cannot forget that they have divided the Armenians against themselves."

Minneapolis, Nov. 20.—The massacres in Armenia have aroused deep sympathy here for the people of that country. The organization of the "Unification Association of the Northwest" was completed yesterday. The object is to create sympathy for and to aid the Armenians. The society was organized through the efforts of Herant Mesrob Kriehelth, who was secretary of the Persian Exposition Commission. It starts out with a large number of Armenians, among them V. A. Krikorian, of Worcester, and Mayor E. H. Smith, who only now has been sent out to their agents was to "meet the market."
